Conservation Halton held the Halton Forest Festival last weekend at Rattlesnake Point Conservation Area, a chance for visitors to get out and enjoy nature, the spectacular fall colours, build a bird house, go tree climbing or watch a carving with chainsaws demonstration. Oakville's Deepa Kalia, 8, is surrounded by fall colours as she works her way up a 60' tall tree, part of the Tree Climbing Canada demonstration area. | Graham Paine/Metroland
